

Citizen Comment to FCC on Sinclair
Broadcasting:

I am quite alarmed
about Sinclair
Broadcasting's
mandate to all their affiliates to broadcast an obviously
politically biased
attack "documentary"
on the eve of the election.

It is my understanding that Sinclair has a license to use the public airwaves "to serve the public good", not to promote a specific political agenda. It is commonly known
that the owner's of
this network
maintain close ties
with a particular party. If this trend continues, the
"public" airwaves
will be come nothing
more than propaganda
machines serving
large corporate and
political agendas,
not the greater good
of the citizens of the United States.

I think what is happening here is evidence of the problems that arise
when media ownership
rules are weakened,
and there is too
much centralized
control over the media. Diversity and competition are good.

Please protect the public airwaves by

preventing the
concentration of
station ownership
under companies such as Sinclair and ClearChannel.

Sincerely,
Randall Alley
